General Info

International Architect | Academic Leader | Research-Driven Designer

Born in Albania in 1985, Andia Guga is an architect, a professor and Director of the Department of Architecture at the Catholic University “Our Lady of Good Counsel”, partner for academic teaching and awarding of double degrees with the University of Florence (Italy).

She holds a PhD in Architectural & Urban Design from the University of Florence and has developed a distinguished academic and professional career across Europe and Asia.

Her scientific work focuses on urban regeneration, contemporary design in historic and culturally-sensitive contexts, and the architectural legacy of the 20th century, with a particular emphasis on the Mediterranean region. She has authored several publications and contributed to international conferences, exhibitions and research programs.

Alongside her academic leadership, she is co-founder and Project Leader at MGAD – Macchione & Guga Archdesign Studio, guiding multidisciplinary teams in the design and realization of complex projects in architecture, landscape and interior design, promoting sustainable innovation and contextual coherence.

Fluent in multiple languages and deeply committed to the future of architectural education, she actively fosters international collaborations, working to build stronger bridges between universities, research institutions and professional practice worldwide.

Competences

Key Competencies

Global Architectural Practice

Extensive experience in designing across diverse geographic and cultural contexts. Projects span public space, urban regeneration, interior architecture, and strategic masterplanning—uniting aesthetics with function in highly contextual ways.

Academic Pedagogy and Leadership

Head of the Architecture Department at the Catholic University “Our Lady of Good Counsel”. Over a decade of teaching in international academic institutions. Combines critical thinking, studio-based learning, and interdisciplinary research in architectural education. Skilled in scientific coordination of research and development projects, thesis supervision, curriculum development and academic partnerships.

Territorial and Cultural Design Strategy

Specialist in narrative-based design rooted in cultural identity and historical layering. Develops frameworks that respond to fragile territories, border conditions and evolving urban morphologies.

Multidisciplinary Integration

Bridges architecture, landscape, urbanism, and interior design within a holistic, human-centered vision. Leads projects and research that cross traditional disciplinary boundaries to generate innovative spatial solutions.

Research Leadership

Principal and collaborator in multiple funded research initiatives. Expertise in cross-border collaboration, spatial policy, and sustainable development within design-led frameworks.

Space, Culture and Storytelling

Explores architecture as a medium for cultural expression and collective memory. Integrates spatial narrative into both academic and design practices, shaping environments that resonate with identity and place.

Exhibition and Editorial Curation

Curates exhibitions and contributes to academic publications with a focus on contemporary architectural theory, urban transformation, and design culture.

Design Tools and Communication

Proficient in professional tools such as AutoCAD, ArchiCAD, Rhinoceros, Adobe Suite, and digital storytelling techniques. Communicates complex ideas through drawings, models, diagrams, and critical texts.
